| Details                  | BSU students visited the Kansai region of Japan for two primary purposes - (i.) to attend the Osaka World Expo, and (ii.) to visit two universities offering courses in English.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |

| Challenges and how they were overcome | English language - Otemon Gakuin students were emerging English language learners, where as BSU students study in an almost exclusive English learning environment. Gestures, use of student/teacher translation, were used to support communication between the students.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| Future plans and visions              | BSU is currently reviewing its accreditations and memberships - Interact (Rotary Club), Red Cross, UNICEF and others. Once complete the school will look to reach out and develop projects with Otemon Gakuin, along with schools it has worked with previously in Nagoya, Japan.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |

They are arranged in rows, and many are making hand gestures, possibly as part of a presentation or performance. The bottom photograph shows a group of students sitting around a table, working with colorful string (red, blue, yellow) and making hand gestures. They appear to be engaged in a collaborative activity or project. |
